Three Important Questions

We've all heard Joseph Campbell's words on creating wealth, "Follow your bliss ...", but how can we turn this beautiful sentiment into clarity in order to move closer to what we want to be doing with our work? Not everyone has an entrepreneur's spirit but many of you are looking to create significant wealth or more joy. Then you realize you can't earn more than you already do in your current work or alternately you don't feel satisfied doing that work. The litmus test question you should be asking yourself : How do I feel at the end of the day about my work today? If your answer is a resounding NOT GOOD AT ALL, then continue reading and learn the 3 most important questions to ask yourself in order to discover your life's purpose and your greatest potential for wealth.

Psychological Reversals

If you have read this email newsletter long enough you know that I always harp on the importance of finding and collapsing psychological reversals in order for permanent healing to occur. I have just finished recording and editing a great new CD on this very topic. While I wait for my graphic designer to out the finishing touches on the cover so I can get the cases printed by my publisher I thought I would offer you a chance first to purchase them as an mp3 file for $14.99 plus tax versus $24.99 plus shipping once it is converted to a CD. 40 min audio includes a live session.

Happy June!

"May the beauty of your life become more visible to you, that you may glimpse your wild divinity", so begins the first line of one of my favorite poems. The transition to summer always makes me think of Blessing for Beauty so I've loaded a recording of the poet reciting it in it's entirety, Irish brogue and all!
